APPLICATION PERIOD:
January 6 through March 24, 2017

*All applications must be received by DVL no later than 5 pm, March 24, 2017.
Late or incomplete applications will not be considered by the Committee.*

Prior to submitting your application, please read carefully the eligibility requirements for the DVL Honorees Scholarship at www.dvlproject.com and the guidelines for writing the Essay which are included with this application.

The Honorees

The DVL Honorees are represented by nearly two hundred men and women recognized in the High Desert region since 2009 for their achievements and their service to their communities. Their inspirational achievements span the visual and performing arts, not-for-profit leadership, entrepreneurship, medicine, law, education, military service, and both business and public service agency leadership.

Because the DVL Honorees as a group are committed to "...paying it forward..." they funded this award to encourage outstanding students who have demonstrated their achievements in the classroom or in public service to further their achievements. Like the DVL Honorees themselves, student applicants from a broad range of disciplines, community service activities, and representing many creative and academic talents will be given consideration by the Selection Committee.

Students who have inventions, artwork, or audio recordings of their creative works or perhaps examples of their publications are invited to submit photos or copies of them along with their applications for consideration by the Selection Committee.

Essay

As part of the application for the DVL Honorees Award, applicants are required to write an original essay. (Note: you are cautioned against simply "recycling" personal essays used for college applications or other scholarships.)

In 500 typed words or less, describe the influences on your creative or academic talents or on your community service activities. These influences—positive or negative—can be an instructor, a pastor, a family member, friend or even a particular event.

Your essay can be accompanied by a color photo of your invention or artwork (do not submit the actual invention or art work) or a replica or copy of text documents or schematic plans which may illustrate your invention, entrepreneurship or creative work.

After you have read again the brief description above of the DVL Honorees, complete the application and combine it with the other materials for required for submission and mail it to the Committee:
